Granor 40th Anniversary

It is with great pleasure that Graeme & Kay Ellis and Oscar Velo announce this year is a major milestone for Granor Rubber & Engineering Pty Limited as we celebrate our 40th year in business. Our thanks go out to all of our customers and business partners who have made our success possible.

We have indeed come a long way from small and humble beginnings in January 1972. We are now an international company with numerous agencies around the world and we particularly wish to express our sincere appreciation to our employees for their loyal support.

Granor has played a crucial role in the development of bridge support design systems with ever increasing load and movement range demands. It has continuously developed state of the art elastomer and expansion joint technology to meet the needs and complexities of modern construction methods.

As an Australian owned family business, the company prides itself on its establishment of long-term, loyal relationships with its customers, suppliers and employees. In the years to come, we plan on continually improving our design and local manufacturing systems and look forward to serving our existing customers and building relationships with new clients.

To commemorate its 40th year of business, Granor has undertaken a rebranding of its visual identity, including the development of a new logo and website, located at www.granor.com.au
